Title: Lisa Robertson fonds

Dates: 1984-2007

Extent: 3.78 m of textual and other material

Biographical History: Lisa Robertson was born on July 22, 1961 in Toronto, ON. In 1979, she moved to Salt Spring Island, BC then in 1984 relocated to Vancouver, BC to attend Simon Fraser University (SFU). From 1988 to 1994 she was the proprietor of Proprioception Books, a specialist bookshop. In 1990 she became involved with the Kootenay School of Writing (KSW), an artist-run collective that works to advance avant-garde writing practices.

Robertson is the author of several books of poetry, including XEclogue (1993), Debbie: An Epic (1997), The Weather (2001), and The Men: A Lyric Book (2006), and has contributed to various anthologies. Her collection of essays and texts on architecture and urban space, Occasional Works and Seven Walks from the Office for Soft Architecture was published in 2003. She has also written many chapbooks, essays, and reviews on poetry, contemporary art, and architecture, as well as columns for various magazines and journals (among them, Mix Magazine, and the interior design magazine Nest). She edited the 2006 Griffin Poetry Prize Anthology, and worked as a co-editor for the poetry journal Raddle Moon, from 1993-1999. She has occasionally done freelance editorial work on poetry manuscripts for New Star Books (Vancouver) Bookthug (Toronto) and Anansi (Toronto).

Robertson has received wide recognition for her work. She was nominated for the Governor General's Award for Poetry in 1998 for Debbie: An Epic, won the Relit Award for Poetry in 2002 for The Weather, and in 2006 received the bpNichol Chapbook Award for Rousseau's Boat.

In 1999, Robertson was granted the Judith E. Wilson Visiting Fellowship in Poetry by Cambridge University (UK). She was a visiting poet and lecturer at the University of California (San Diego) in 2003, and in 2006, she served as the Roberta C. Holloway lecturer in the Practice of Poetry at the University of California (Berkeley). From 2007-2009, she was a visiting artist-in-residence at the California College of the Arts (San Francisco). She has taught at the Capilano College (North Vancouver, BC), the American University of Paris (France), Dartington College of the Arts (UK), Piet Zwart Institute (Netherlands) and at Jack Kerouac School of Disembodied Poetics, Naropa University (Boulder, CO). Robertson also serves on the advisory boards of Artspeak Gallery (Vancouver, BC) and Emily Carr Institute Press (Vancouver, BC) and as an advising editor for Capilano Review.

From 2003-2007, she lived in France, where she became involved in translation from French to English. She is translating the linguist and philosopher Henri Meschonnic, the poet Eric Suchere, and the novelist Michele Bernstein. Her current work is collaborative in nature and works across video, installation, and digital sound.

Robertson's most recent publication is a compilation of her occasional poetry entitled Lisa Robertson's Magenta Soul Whip (2009). University of California Press will publish R's Boat in 2010.
