

What information do I need to cite a webpage?

The image shows a screenshot of a NASA website with several callout boxes and arrows pointing to specific elements:

- WEBSITE URL: A pink box with an arrow pointing to the address bar containing the URL: <https://www.nasa.gov/feature/new-horizons-next-target-just-got-a-lot-more-interesting>
- ORGANIZATION: A blue box with an arrow pointing to the NASA logo in the top left corner.
- DATE: An orange box with an arrow pointing to the date "Aug. 3, 2017" circled in orange. Below it, a note reads: "Note: Not all websites will have a date".
- ARTICLE TITLE: A green box with an arrow pointing to the article title "New Horizons' Next Target Just Got a Lot More Interesting" circled in green.
- AUTHOR NAME: A purple box with text: "usually appears here or at the bottom of the webpage. No author? Check your citation style guidelines."

The webpage content includes a sidebar with "Latest" and "Related" articles, a main article section with a sub-header "New Horizons", and a large image of two asteroids in space.
